

Easter Traditions Around the World

In Hungary, boys sprinkle girls with water or perfume.
The girls give the boys a coin or egg in return.

In Norway, it is a tradition to solve murders at Easter.
All of the major TV stations show crime and detective stories.

In Germany they gather the old Christmas trees and burn them in the Easter Fire, symbolizing the end of winter.

In Sweden, villages compete to see who can make the biggest bonfire.

Italy claims to have invented the first chocolate Easter eggs.

Explore world cultures with ISE
800-766-4656